Players with Undeveloped Handicaps

- Initial handicap index allocated frozen at the start of winter golf, divided by qualifying rounds for handicap required (20), multiplied by the qualifying rounds played.

- A player with an initial handicap index allocation of 10.7 and has 15 qualifying rounds played would work out as $10.7 / 20 \times 15 = 8.0$, thus he would get a winter playing index of 8.
- A player with an initial handicap index allocation of 10.7 and has 18 qualifying rounds played would work out as $10.7 / 20 \times 18 = 9.6$, thus he would get a winter playing index of 10.
